Join a film viewing and panel discussion to raise visibility around critical issues of diversity, equity, and inclusion in science.

Who do you picture when you picture a "scientist?" This award-winning, independent documentary follows a ground-swell of researchers who are writing a new chapter for women scientists.

A goal of Picture a Scientist is to act as a catalyst for necessary reflection, discussion, and change. You're invited to join a deeper, guided conversation about how to make science more inclusive.
